THE PHOTOGRAPHY OF THOMAS BROWN BROOK

Thomas Brown Brook (1890-1966) was the son of a Nevada City gold miner who came to Montana in 1863. His father John Brook established a ranch on the Beaverhead River eight miles south of Twin Bridges, Montana in 1870.

Thomas grew up on the ranch and attended grade and high school at Twin Bridges.

He went on to earn a degree in Civil Engineering from Montana State College in 1913. After working on a ranch and serving in France during World War I,

Thomas Brook secured a ranch on Ruby Creek in the Madison Valley. He operated this ranch in partnership with the late Claude Dale from 1921 to 1929. Later he worked for the late Walter Pitcher at the Twin Bridges Garage and for J.F. Jenkins at the Motor Inn Garage. He then opened the Brook Electric and Key Shop in Twin Bridges. He was a member of the American Legion Post No. 31 and of West Gate Lodge A.F.&A.M.

As a hobby, Brook began taking photographs of various locations in and around Twin Bridges, and eventually engaged in copying historical photographs brought to him by various individuals.

The photographs of Thomas Brook consist of nature landscapes and town views of southwest Montana and particularly in the Twin Bridges area of Madison and Beaverhead Counties.

Subjects include natural history, ranch and farming operations, bridges and bridge construction, schools and school groups, and early settlers of the Twin Bridges area.

You will be able to see some of these photos at the Twin Bridges Museum or online. Brook organized the images by assigning sequential numbers for the first 388 photographs, but he often would group several negatives within a given number if they were similar exposures.

Many of these early control numbers now bear alphabetic extensions to distinguish the separate images.

Starting with image number 389, new control numbers were assigned by the processing archivist, observing a rough subject arrangement of the photographs as they were filed by the MSU library staff in 1966. Overall there are 1,057 individual images, represented by numbers 1-839. Not all prints are available, especially in the first 388, and most negatives for images numbered greater than 388 are missing.

An important exception are the glass plate negatives (numbers 773-785) documenting the 1896 flood at Twin Bridges.

The photographer of these images is unknown, and Brook left no clues as to how he came to own them.

In some cases for images that lack a corresponding negative, duplicate prints were saved if they showed a difference in darkroom manipulation.

Before his death in 1966, Brook had completed a substantial collection of both original and copied photographs.

Some of the subject of his photos are "Train in Twin Bridges in 1897, Twin Bridges Garage in 1908, Robbers Root Tavern near Ruby in 1890's, First Aircraft to fly in Twin Bridges in 1900's" and so much more.

Photographs and miscellaneous papers created or collected by Thomas B. Brook were donated to Montana State University in several deposits during 1964, 1965, and 1966.

For more information or to take a look at his photographs visit the Twin Bridges Museum in Twin Bridges, MT or go online at <http://mtmemory.org>.
