Standing with Those Who Truly Serve

In 1776, Thomas Paine wrote in The American Crisis, “These are the times that try men’s souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country.” Paine was describing those who are eager to stand up when times are easy, but disappear when real sacrifice is required.

That passage has always stayed with me because it reminds us that public service is supposed to be exactly that—service. Not convenience. Not ambition. And certainly not comfort.

That is why I am proud to support Trevor Walter for the Montana House of Representatives.

I have had the opportunity to get to know Trevor well, and I can say without hesitation that he is the opposite of the “summer soldier” Paine warned about. Trevor is stepping forward to serve at a time when doing so requires real courage and real sacrifice.

Running for office today often means taking on personal criticism, giving up precious time with family, and shouldering financial burdens that few people ever see.

Trevor is doing it anyway.

He is running not because it is easy, but because he believes deeply in Montana, in faith, in integrity, and in doing what is right even when it comes at a cost. That kind of character cannot be manufactured during a campaign—it comes from a lifetime of living by principle.

Montana needs leaders with backbone, people who are willing to stand firm when the pressure comes and who remember that they answer first to the people they represent.

From everything I have seen, Trevor Walter has the courage and the moral compass for that responsibility.

I believe he will serve the people of Montana well.

When the times test us—as they always do—I am confident Trevor will not shrink from the service of his state. Instead, he will stand and do the work that needs to be done.

That is exactly the kind of leadership Montana deserves.

Respectfully,

Bill Lussenheide

State of Montana Republican Party Treasurer

Do the Right Thing - Vote for Ken Walsh

I’ve known Ken Walsh for more than 50 years. From road tripping to the National FFA Convention in 1970 to attending MSU together, becoming high school Ag teachers, and later when he became my banker, we have built decades of trust and respect. That’s why I am confident in my enthusiastic support of his candidacy for reelection to represent House District 69.

In every capacity that I have known and worked with Ken, I have recognized and admired his strong commitment to excellence and his dedication to his constituents. When it comes to community service, no one knows or exhibits that characteristic better than Ken Walsh.

More recently, I have had the good fortune to work closely with Ken after he was elected to serve as the Chairman of the Board of the Ruby Valley Hospital District, while I was serving as Chairman of the Healthcare Foundation. I witnessed Ken serve tirelessly, and lead confidently, as wide-reaching discussions and tough decisions were made to right-size and build the new Ruby Valley Medical Center. That facility, completed during Ken’s tenure as Chairman, and with his unwavering support of time and resources, stands as a testament to his leadership ability and his dedication to community service. Very few could claim to have served their community as well.

Representative Walsh knows agriculture, he knows business, he knows community, he understands rural healthcare, he cherishes family and he knows what it means to serve selflessly. Again and again, I have witnessed his commitment to “do the right thing.” I encourage you to follow his example when you cast your ballot in the upcoming primary election and vote for him for reelection to House District 69.

Real Progress in Helena Starts with the Right Team Why District 69 needs a dependable conservative vote in Helena

By Trevor Walter

People ask me all the time, “What are you going to do for our county when you get to Helena?”

That’s a fair question. But the honest answer is this: no one legislator goes to Helena and fixes big problems alone.

A legislator can make a difference. He can bring bills, ask hard questions, cast the right votes, and fight for the people back home. But real results take a team. And I’ve been asked by several Republican legislators to join that team so we can make real progress this time.

Most of what happens in Helena is basic government business, and somewhere around 85 to 90 percent of it gets support from both sides. But the big issues are different.

Property taxes. Family values. Parental rights. Judicial issues. Shrinking government. Stopping wasteful spending and cutting useless programs. Those are the big issues where both sides typically won’t come together.

When your teammates walk away, as many so-called Republicans did in the 2025 session, and choose the other side of the aisle, you’re bound to lose. That’s exactly what happened. Conservatives lost their working majority, and with it went the ability to firmly push back on runaway spending, government expansion, government overreach, and the steady erosion of family values and parental rights.

Government’s natural tendency is to grow. It always wants to take on more, spend more, and insert itself into problems that individuals, families, or private enterprise could often handle better and more efficiently.

That’s where it matters whether the people you send to Helena will hold the line or cave to lobbyists and outside pressure pushing an agenda that runs against our conservative, constitutional, and Godly principles.

So, when people ask what I can do for our counties, my answer is simple: I can be one dependable vote. I can be one more person helping shrink government, stop the spending spree, protect family values, and defend our Montana way of life instead of working against those efforts.

One legislator can’t do it alone. But one solid legislator, working with the right team, can help make sure our district is represented the way it should be.
